

James,

When I found out I was pregnant with you I was 16. Everyone told me my life would be ruined if I kept you. When I was 6 weeks pregnant I had a dream about you. You were just how you are, mousey hair, big blue eyes, stocky like your dad and you were walking with me up to your dad's. I woke the next morning and told your dad you were a boy, you were perfect and was going to be a big baby born on 1st June 2008. He didn't believe me. The midwife said your due date was the beginning of May. ~~But~~ But I know I had to keep you now. After 5 days of labour on the night of 1st June 2008 your dad lent in and said "you've got 15 minutes to be right" it was 03.45.

You were born 4 minutes later.
You were perfect. Big blue eyes, Grandad Kelly's big nose, daddy's big shoulders, my big red lips, ~~perfect~~ get you still managed to be the image of your dad.

You kept me up for 7 months straight because you were so greedy. ~~When~~

~~in 1 month~~ just at work. But such is anger you would sit in your room and either yourself smiling at the walls which I decorated you room. I'd only know from you if you were hungry. You started of talking early - cratter soon. When I started talk at work you were happy and at work one. Know then you loved being with Mummy. You'd say "shin ya" and thought your name was father of one point (sorry). You had a cute little blind and everyone loved your hair!

From the age of 2 you wanted to help everyone. Every weekend you'd get your pocket money and either save it or give it to charity. Sooo good natured. You've always been wise before your years. Saving money, helping with your baby sister, telling people about your plan for the future and understanding the world.

When Emily came you were so excited you loved her to bits and were so jealous and envious. David loved her, but her mum back and forth and always stick her dummy in if she left it. As she grew up you would have her understand why she can't do things and help her do new things. You are such an angel. We'd go to the play area and you'd help her around ~~the~~ instead of playing with your friends.

New you're 7 and your turning into a Handsome, good natured, well behaved and very clever boy, you fly through your homework and reading. You make messes grow. I love our jigs together.

I hope you find a sport you love and stick at it. You have good peaches and will go far if you find a sport you love. Exercise is healthy for body and mind. You're clever and strong and fast - you could do anything. Please don't waste any of that. Find something you love I don't care if its sweeping streets or running for GB in Olympics.
Find a passion and get a job in that field. If you love your job you can't go wrong. You say you want to be a doctor + a footballer :-) You can do anything.
Always be yourself, you are a careful, energetic, intelligent funny, caring, loving and sensitive soul.

one day a few months back you saw a music video with 2 boys kissing. You asked why 2 men would kiss, already you wouldn't understand I said "Why do you think they would kiss?" you said they must love each other. I nodded. You asked if 2 men could marry I said yes.
You said its sad I asked why you said because they can't have a baby. I said they can adopt.
You said you still want to marry a girl. I said you ~~can~~ can marry anyone in the world as long as you love them. That is how spectacular you are James

You are such a gentleman, I know you'll make an amazing husband one day. I hope I'm there. If not, treat me how you'd treat your daughter to be

So true to that.

Be happy
